

ASIAN AMERICAN STUDIES GRADUATE MINOR

Graduate School

Program Website (<https://asianamericanstudies.cornell.edu/graduate-program-5/>)

Program Description

The program's graduate minor invites any Cornell graduate student interested in Asian American studies to craft a program of interdisciplinary study. Faculty expertise spans multiple fields, including anthropology, history, literature, performing & media arts, labor relations, Asian studies, human development, psychology, and language, enabling students to develop a graduate minor that meets their specific interests.

Graduate Minor Requirements

Students must complete the following requirements:

- One pro-seminar (including foundational texts and guest speakers from among AASP's core and affiliated faculty as well as Asian American studies scholars beyond Cornell).
- One additional Asian American Studies course at the 3000, 4000, or 6000 level. Other courses not crosslisted with Asian American Studies may be eligible upon consultation with the Director of Graduate Studies.
- As per graduate school regulations, select one AASP field member to serve as a minor committee member.
